NZSG operates within a changing competitive external environment, facing major challenges continuing to provide an effective range of services. I've used NZSG resources and assistance extensively to research my forebears who arrived in NZ in the early 1860s; and feel it's time to 'pay-back' by making a contribution at national level.

I have a background in education policy and strategic management in the Department/Ministry of Education and distance education; a Master's degree in Public Policy; and have served on various boards/committees.

I'm currently Convenor of the Kilbirnie Branch and formerly was Editor of their newsletter.
